

COMPUTER SCIENCE BRUNEL PHD SYMPOSIUM (CSBPS 2018)

– POSTER COMPETITION

Friday, 27th of April 2018

Brunel University London
207/208 Wilfred Brown

The Computer Science PhD Symposium to be held at Brunel University London invites Computer Science PhD candidates at different stages of their PhD to present and discuss their research with their peers and senior researchers through a poster session. The poster session will be held during the PhD Symposium lunch.

PhD candidates are invited to prepare and present an A3 Poster containing a summary of their current and/or planned research through illustrative images and text. PhD candidates that are interested in participating in the Poster Session should register their intention through our JISC service where they also can find further information and templates. Each interested candidate should provide their name and title of their poster by the 6th of April, 2018. All presenting in the Poster session should bring their poster printed to the PhD Symposium on the 27th of April and hang it, as it will be indicated at registration.

There will be a best poster award based on the design of the poster and its presentation.
